INTRODUCTION. This genealogy record was prepared by William B. Holmes, largely in part based on a manuscript prepared by his uncle, Leslie Victor Winchester, and a booklet entitled: Van Riper Family History, by Charles Gage Van Riper. Other source documents have been used and noted. This document is intended for the private use of family members and should not be reproduced or published for commercial purposes without permission of the family members. Information concerning living persons should be considered as sensitive information.

DISCLAIMER - Since the information contained here is based on the best data possible at the time it was recorded and not always on documented evidence and research, the information is subject to revision and updating as new information is uncovered. Also, there are conflicting versions at critical points in the genealogy which have lead to many unresolved questions. Therefore, this record should be considered as a working draft, used for further research, and not considered as a final authority. Please feel free to contact William B, Holmes to make any corrections or additions to this record, no matter how small or insignificant. Notification of new events, such as births, marriages, and deaths, are welcomed.

ORIGIN OF THE SURNAME - Van Riper

Possible Origins - There are three possible areas that the Van Riper ancestor may have come from: Ripen {Ripe} in Denmark, the oldest preserved town in Denmark; and De Rijp or Rijpend in the Netherlands.

The Danish Van Riper Family

The name Van Riper comes from a town in Denmark, Rypen, on the River Gram in the province of Ribe, in the southwest part of North Jutland. Ripen is a city in the diocese of the same name; it has a venerable antiquity, and once was a considerable seaport, until the harbor became filled up. It is very ancient, has an old cathedral, and its fine harbor once made it a great seaport, but now commerce flows in other channels. The locality was a battle-ground between Denmark and Sweden from 1637 to 1645, when the Swedes took the city. It was given back by treaty, but war soon broke out again, and it was not concluded until 1660. Then came a remarkable revolution in domestic politics, and the first Van Riper - Jurian Tomassen - left Rypen on April 2, 1663, in the ship The Spotted Cow, bound for New York. There were ninety other names on the passenger list, but he seems to have been the only one of his family.
The Dutch Van Riper Family

The Dutch wrote the name Rypen; in modern Dutch, Rijpen, indicating the sound of the long i. Some early members of the family called themselves indifferently Van Ripen, and Van de Ripe. The latter name would indicate an original emigration from a small town in North Holland, called de Rijp or Rijpend, dating from the year 1400, with four churches, two harbors and a fine canal.

The American Van Riper Family - In Passiac and Bergen Counties in New Jersey, the name is almost universally written Van Riper; in Hudson County, New Jersey, some families write it Van Rypen.

The name Rieper can be explained as “rope-maker,” also as “surveyor” (Low-German: Reper). In East-Frisian the name Ripe means something like “border” (of a street, or a river), and Riep is a “side-way.”

REFERENCES

Ref. The First Ancestors of the Van Riper Family in America, handwritten document, author unknown, available from the Mormon Church of the Latter Day Saints, which states in part, in the first paragraph:

“The first American ancestors of the Van Riper family were Jurriaen Thomasson van Rijper and Rijcke Lemming, his wife. Jurriaen, the son of Thomas van Rijper, was born in Holland about 1640 and with his first cousin Jan, son of Laurens van Rijper, came over to America on the ship Bonte Coe (the Spotted Cow), Captain Jan Bergen, which sailed from Amsterdam in Holland on April 16, 1663 for New Amsterdam (New York) in New Netherlands.”

Ref. Yearbook of the Holland Society of New York, indicates that a Jurriaen Thomasson and a Jan Laurenson were passengers on the Spotted Cow. Their last name of van Rijer was not given in this list. Apparently, Jurriaen {Uriah} Thomasson did not choose his surname of Van Rijper until after he came to America. Records of his death on September 12, 1695, show that he was then known as Jurriaen Thomasson.

Ref. The History of the City of Paterson and the County of Passaic, New Jersey, by William Nelson, published 1901, Paterson, NJ, contains genealogy information concerning Urian {Juriason, Jurian Thomassen De Ripen} Thomasse from Rypen. It also indicates that “The descendants of Jurriaen Thomasson were among the last Acquaackanonk settlers to adopt a family surname... In Passaic and Bergen counties the name is almost universally written as Van Riper; in Hudson county some families write it Van Ripen.” In addition, he mentions the following, “It may be noted here that some early members of the family called themselves indifferently Van Ripen and Van de Ripe.” This reference indicates that Jurriaen Thomasson came from Ripen, Denmark. Nelson states, “In April, 1663, Juriaen Thomasse (Uriah, son of Thomas) from Rypen in North Jutland, (Denmark) sailed from Holland in T’ Bonte Koe, the “Spotted Cow.”
Footnote in Nelson’s book: “Ripen is a city in the diocese of the same name; it has a venerable antiquity, and once was a considerable seaport until the harbor filled in. The Dutch wrote the name Rypen; in modern Dutch Rijpen, indicating the sound of the long i. It may be noted here that some early members of the family called themselves indifferently Van Ripen, and Van de Ripe. The latter name would indicate an earlier emigration from a small town in North Holland, called De Rijp, dating from the year 1400, and now having 2,000 inhabitants, with four churches, two harbors and a fine canal.”

Ref. History of the County of Hudson, New Jersey, by Winfield, provides other variations of the name: Van Reipen, Van Reypen, Van Reiper, Van Reyper, and Van Ryper. This reference indicates that Jurriaen Thomasson came from Ripen, Denmark. Winfield states, “From this port (Ripen) in April, 1663, a vessel named T’ Bonte Koe, the Spotted Cow, sailed for New Netherlands with eighty-nine passengers, consisting of men, women, and children. Among the number was Juriaen Thomassen, a young man of the city of Ripen.”

Ref. Old Town, by Jacob Riis, indicates that the Van Ripers came from Ripen, Denmark. Note. The town is now called Ribe.

Ref. Van Riper Family History, by Charles Gage Van Riper, 1980, states, “A little village named Bergen, situated in the middle of flat fertile lands about six miles west of New Amsterdam was surveyed and plotted and it was there that Juriaen made his home and lived until his death on Sept. 12th, 1695, an event recorded in the documents of the Dutch Reformed Church there. He was identified as Juriaen Thomassen Van Rijper.” The following diagram indicates the information contained in this reference:

The 4th child, and 3rd son, was named Aelt; Thomas Jurjaense and Jan Juriance are referenced below as being at the baptisms of their children. Note. He is known by various names including: Jurian Tomassen, Juriaen Thomassen, Jurriaen Thomasson, Juriaen Thomasse, Juriasen Thomasse Van Rijper, Juriaen Thomasson van Rijper, and Jurriaen {Uriah} Thomasson. Sometimes Van Riper was written as van Riper. Some of his descendants assumed the name of Juriance, now Yeriance and Auryansen, while others took the name of the ancestral town and became Van Ripens and Van Ripers.

Note. He and his wife were witnesses at the baptism of their grandson, Jurjaen, son of Thomas Jurjaense and Jannetje Straet, September 1, 1693, as set forth in the Acquackanonk Church records, which contain no other mention of him, a fact which makes it seem unlikely that he settled at Acquackanonk at all.

| Note. He was one of the first blacksmiths in the area, and his shop was located on the river road a little south of the Episcopal Church. It is said that when skirmishing between the British on the east band of the river and the residents of Acquackanonk Township was being engaged in during the American Revolutionary War, he provided slugs of iron, in the absence of cannonballs, for cannons used by the colonial fighters. When he ran out of iron suited for this kind of shooting, he surrendered to the gunners, first his hammer, and then his sledge to be used in place on cannonballs. The British were heard to call out loudly to their comrades, “Get out of the way for God’s sake, before they send us the anvil.” |

Ref. History of the Van Riper Family in America 1753 - 1958 by Edward A. Van Riper
Dated: October 28, 1958

“In the year 1753 three brothers arrived in New Netherlands from Holland. The youngest of the three was Jacob, age 7 years. I do not know the names or ages of the other two brothers.

They settled in new Netherlands and later on as Jacob came of age he married a French woman, Abbey Ann Lasier.

In the year 1798 yellow fever broke out in lower town around the fort and green and the farmers and villagers began to move north to what was Greenwich Village.

Greenwich Village was formed in 1634, the first house being built by Wonter Von Twiller. The district was exceptionally fine and heathful and so many of the people settled there. Some of the people moved across the river to New Jersey and New York state.

Jacob and his family settled between Haverstraw and Spring Valley, New York. They had two sons, Abram and Dennis (or Tunis).

Abram married Catherine Michler and had eleven children, eight sons and three daughters.

Dennis married Maria Fisher. They had four children, two boys and two girls. All but one died at an early age. The survivor was John Fisher Van Riper, my great great grandfather.

Abram and Dennis were born at or near a place called the Pond – which could be Rockland Lake, which is near Spring Valley, N.Y.

Dennis had a farm at St. Andrews, Orange County, N.Y. and also one at St. Elmo. He died at Wallkill, N.Y. and is buried in Greenwood Cemetery in Brooklyn, N.Y.

Abram and two of his sons, Jacob and Lewis, had a cotton mill which, in those days, was known as the Dutch Factory at Clarkstown – near Spring Valley.

Between the years 1850 and 1860 Abram and his family decided to go west to Michigan. They founded the village of LaGrange in Cass County and there proceeded to build a new mill for the manufacture of cotton and wollen goods.

They heard that the railroad was expected to pass near them but it never did so that the mill was then abandoned. In the years that followed the family started to migrate to other parts of Michigan.
Abram and members of his family are buried in the Van Riper Cemetery at LaGrange, Michigan.

Members of the Armed Forces:

Charles Van Riper enlisted Aug. 16, 1861 and was commissioned first lieutenant in Company A, 12th Michigan Voluntary Infantry. He was inducted Oct. 10, 1861 and mustered out Feb. 28, 1863.

Edward A. Van Riper enlisted in the Army Ordinance Dec. 13, 1917 and was discharged June 24, 1919. He served one year in France.

Fred C. Van Riper enlisted Sept. 1946 and served three years in the U.S. Navy, and transferred to the Air Force and is still in service in Clovis, New Mexico.

VAN RIPER FAMILY - from Jacob Van Riper to the present - Much of the information contained below was obtained from a manuscript prepared by Leslie Victor Winchester, and Ref. Van Riper Family History, by Charles Gage Van Riper, 1980.

o--10  Jacob Van Riper  B. 1746, Holland  Came to America from Holland in 1753.  M. Abbey Ann {Mary Ann} Frazier {Lazier}, 1785  Ch. Abram {Abraham} and Dennis {Tunis} Van Riper (The exact number of children is unknown, as well as their names.) Resided. Between Haverstraw and Spring Valley, Rockland County, NY  D. 1817  Note. See above.

Note. The Edward A. Van Riper reference indicates that Jacob Van Riper came from Holland, whereas, the Charles Gage Van Riper reference indicates that he was born in America.

Note. The Edward A. Van Riper reference indicates that Jacob Van Riper married Abby Ann Frazier; whereas, the Charles Gage Van Riper reference indicates that “it is believed” that he was married to Abigail La Roe.

Note. The Charles Gage Van Riper reference indicates that Jacob Van Riper died in Franklin Township, Bergen County, NJ; whereas, the Leslie Victor Winchester manuscript does not indicate any location. Common ground of agreement is that Jacob Van Riper was born in 1746 and died in 1817, and that he had a son by the name of Abram; however, there is no mention of Dennis {Tunis} Van Riper.

o---9  Abram (Abraham) Van Riper  B. 1787 (Between 1783 and 1789)  M. Catherine Mickler  Ch. Jacob John, John A., Louis, Abram {Abraham}, Charles A., Garret {Garro}, William, Tunis, Abbey Ann, Maria, Margaret, and Matilda Van Riper (See note below concerning the number of sons and daughters according to the Charles Gage Van Riper reference.) He and his wife moved to Cass County, MI, in 1856. Resided. Haverstraw, Rockland County, NY, and Cass County, MI. D. August 19, 1871 (The Charles Gage Van Riper reference indicates that he died in 1873, at the age of 84 years.) Bu. Van Riper Cemetery, Cass County, MI. Note. See above.

Note. He owned and operated a cotton mill at Midland Park, near Ridgewood, NJ (or at Spring Valley, Rockland County, NY). Also, he and a member of the Zabriskie family may have been partners in a ship-outfitting (“ship chandlers”) company in New York City, NY. His son John A. Van Riper married the daughter of his partner. (See note below concerning John Fisher Van Riper.)

Note. Upon arriving in Cass County, MI, he and his sons Charles and Garret bought about six hundred acres of land, including a site in La Grange Village where there had been a sawmill that had burned. They rebuilt the mill and dam on Dowagiac Creek to turn out both flour and woolen goods. The mill worked day and night turning out woolen underwear for the Union soldiers in the Civil War. Abram and his sons also built a school and a church in La Grange, MI. (Ref. Glover’s History of Cass County, Michigan; Waterman’s History of Cass County, Michigan; and U.S. Census for 1860.)

Abram, George, Jacob J., Garret, Lewis, Margaret, Catherine Matilda, Alvin, and Gertrude Van Riper. He spent most of his early life in Haverstraw, Rockland County, NY. In 1854, he and two brothers went to Cass County, MI, and settled along Dowagiac Creek, near La Grange, MI. He remained in La Grange, MI, during the Civil War and ran the family mill. Resided. Haverstraw, Rockland County, NY, and Cass County, MI. D. 1885, Buchanan, Berrien County, near the Saint Joseph River, MI.

Note. He was a very large man, being over 6 feet tall, and very broad and strong enough to bend horseshoes with his hands. He once single-handedly pulled a team of oxen onto dry land when they had been completely mired in a swamp. A family legend is that in his old age he left his business and family and spent his last years of his life in a cabin on the Saint Joseph River hunting and fishing.

Note. He suffered from severe stuttering, and eventually helped to develop the science of speech pathology. He wrote 27 books and hundred of articles, and lectured throughout the world, becoming one of the founding fathers of this new science. He was a world renowned and highly respected pioneer in the field of speech pathology. He wrote an autobiography and his father’s biography entitled: “My Father Dr. Van,” published in 1982 by John M. Longyear Library, Marquette, Marquette County, MI.

Note. He once said that according to his father, the only information he (Paul Van Riper) had about his early ancestors was that they had come to America from Holland before the American Revolutionary War and had settled in New Jersey near New Amsterdam. The only other thing that had been handed down from generation to generation was this rhyme: “A Van and a Van and the son of a Van, A Van of an ancient line, From every rugged feature, Ancestral glories shine.”

He settled in Bergen County, NJ.  He may have belonged to a branch of a small Polish noble family named Zaborowskis. (Ref. Harman’s Poles in New York, 17th and 18th Centuries.)  The surname is also spelled as Zabriska.

Note. He was badly wounded in the Battle of Shiloh, taken prisoner, and imprisoned at Madison, GA. He was closely confined for trying to escape on October 7, 1862. He came back to Michigan after the war a broken man, and suffered from scurvy, varicose veins, and asthma. He was unable to do any hard labor for the rest of his life.

Note. The Battle of Shiloh occurred on Sunday, June 6, and Monday, June 7, 1862, in Hardin County, TN, near Pittsburgh Landing, TN, on the west bank of the Tennessee River, about nine miles south of Savannah, TN. It was the first major battle of the Western Theater in the Civil War. It involved about 65,000 Union and 44,000 Confederate soldiers. The battle resulted in nearly 24,000 killed, wounded, and missing. It proved to be a decisive victory for the Union forces when they advanced on and seized control of the Confederate railway system at Corinth, MS. This was one of the most bloody battles of the Civil War. The 12th Michigan Infantry Regiment (U.S.) was at the battle.

Garret {Garro} Van Riper B. M. Maria Zabriskie, see note below. (Note. The name is also spelled as Gerret, Gerrit, and Garret in Dutch. In 1854, he and two brothers went to Cass County, MI, and settled along Dowagiac Creek near La Grange, MI. D.

Tunis Van Riper B. M. Hanna Ackerman He moved to Cass County, MI, after 1856. He was a farmer. D.

Note. Ref. Van Riper Family History, by Charles Gage Van Riper in 1980, indicates the children of Abram Van Riper, above, as “six sons, John A., Charles A., Garret, William, Tunis, and Abraham and two daughters, one of whom was named Abigail after her mother.” Therefore, those not included by name in this statement, including John Jacob and Louis Van Riper above, are designated here as (Possible) for those who might want to conduct further research. Also, it is not clear as to what is meant by “after her mother.” It could be that he meant to say “after his mother,” meaning Abigail La Roe, and not Catherine Mickler or her mother.
